Electricity cars were always a silly idea. Well, I would qualify that, the decision to turn all combustion cars into battery ones was just daft. It would have been far more sensible to use electricity where it might be appropriate. You know, inside cities. There it might help air quality and go about it's business more quietly, possibly as a useful van. That was the future 25 years ago and I can prove it. See you next time.

The graphic features a central photograph of two men, Fuzz and Tim, smiling and leaning against a white car. Fuzz is on the left, wearing a blue denim jacket, and Tim is on the right, wearing a plaid shirt and a cap. A large, stylized 'VS' logo is positioned between them. To the left of the photo is a blue circular logo with a cartoon cat face and the text 'BANGER NOMICS' above a small image of a white car. A speech bubble from the top left contains the text 'Thursday 12th March at 8pm'. A speech bubble from the bottom right contains the text 'On National Geographic'. FCM 156

Free Car Mag continues the fight for motoring freedom in 2026, sticking up for drivers and those who want the freedom to choose what to drive and when to drive it. There will be stories that can't be read anywhere else and that should be reason enough to come back for more. All Hail Comrade Keef Stalin?
